Understanding CloudDesk Invoices

Billing and Payments

Fictional training documentation for a local RAG demonstration.

Purpose

This guide explains how CloudDesk customers can find, read, and download invoices for their organization.

Where to find invoices

An organization owner or billing administrator can open Settings, choose Billing, and select Invoices. The invoice list shows the invoice number, issue date, billing period, amount, currency, and payment status. Users without the billing permission may not see this section.

Invoice status definitions

Paid means the payment was confirmed. Open means payment is still due. Past due means the due date has passed without a confirmed payment. Voided means the invoice was cancelled and should not be paid. A pending payment may take time to be reflected after the payment provider confirms it.

Downloading an invoice

Open Settings > Billing > Invoices, select the required invoice, and choose Download PDF. If the button is unavailable, check that the user has billing permission and refresh the page. If the invoice still cannot be downloaded, contact support with the invoice number and organization name.

Invoice details and corrections

Invoices include the legal organization name, billing address, tax details when applicable, line items, subtotal, taxes, credits, and total. Only a billing administrator can update billing profile details. Changes to profile details do not automatically rewrite a previously issued invoice. For a correction to an issued invoice, contact the billing team and provide the invoice number plus the exact field that needs correction.

Example

If invoice CD-1042 is marked Open, the customer should first check the due date and payment method. If the customer already paid, ask for the payment confirmation reference instead of advising them to pay twice.
