Cancelling a CloudDesk Subscription

Subscriptions and Refunds

Fictional training documentation for a local RAG demonstration.

Who can cancel

An organization owner or billing administrator can manage cancellation from Settings > Billing > Plan. Other members should contact an authorized administrator.

Cancellation steps

Open Settings > Billing > Plan, choose Cancel subscription, review the confirmation screen for the effective date and access consequences, and confirm only if the details are correct. Save or note the confirmation displayed by the product.

Access after cancellation

The cancellation screen states when paid access ends and whether any remaining access continues through the current billing period. The actual account confirmation is authoritative; support should not promise a date without seeing it.

Before cancelling

Customers may export needed data and review which features will become unavailable. Support must not claim that cancellation automatically deletes an organization or all stored data unless the applicable policy explicitly says so.

Unexpected renewal

If a customer reports a renewal after cancellation, request the organization name, invoice number, cancellation confirmation, and relevant dates. Escalate to Billing Operations for review.

Retention and refunds

Cancellation and refund eligibility are separate questions. Do not tell a customer that cancellation automatically guarantees a refund. Refer to the refund policy and the details shown on the account.
