Inviting and Removing Organization Members

Account Administration

Fictional training documentation for a local RAG demonstration.

Invite a member

An owner or administrator with user-management permission can open Settings > Members, choose Invite member, enter the work email, assign the appropriate role, and send the invitation.

Invitation status

Pending means the invite has not yet been accepted. Accepted means the member completed the invitation flow. If an invite expires or is revoked, an administrator can issue a new invitation when the interface permits it.

Invite not received

Verify the address, ask the recipient to check spam, and confirm that the invitation is still pending. If the invite cannot be resent or the status is inconsistent, capture the organization and email and contact support.

Least privilege

Assign the minimum role needed for the person's work. Do not grant administrator access merely to solve a routine login or access problem.

Removing a member

An authorized administrator can select the member in Settings > Members and choose Remove when available. Before removal, consider ownership of active work and any organizational offboarding procedure.

Privacy

Do not confirm whether an email belongs to another organization to an unverified requester. Verify authority before disclosing membership details.
